

Abstract

5 A controlled release delivery composition which can be administered to a high fat use environment such as the human gastrointestinal tract following a high fat meal. The delivery composition is embodied as a core surrounded by an asymmetric polymeric membrane. In a preferred embodiment, the asymmetric polymeric membrane is cellulose acetate.